rural communities with energy efficiency. To gain insight on this topic, we conducted interviews with 15 stakeholders who work in the rural energy or rural energy efficiency space, including utility program ...

Rural households have a median energy burden of 4.4%, compared to the national burden of 3.3%. Rural low-income households are even worse off, shouldering a median energy ...

In the present study, an innovative off-grid photovoltaic energy supply system is proposed, which distinguishes the energy quality differences between electrical energy and thermal energy.

Use this matrix to search for alternative and affordable energy solutions, find funding for energy projects, and learn more about energy-related programs across USDA's agencies and mission areas.

When meeting the same PV local consumption, household PV centralized energy storage can achieve smaller energy storage configuration and lower cost compared to household PV ...

We develop an algorithm for stand-alone residential BESS cost as a function of power and energy storage capacity using the NLR bottom-up residential BESS cost model (Ramasamy et al., 2023) ...

Running and maintaining power lines over vast distances is expensive, and these costs are often passed down to consumers. Energy storage, coupled with local renewable energy sources, ...

A recent study found that the energy burden for rural households was about 33 percent higher than the national average (3.3 percent of household spending), largely due to higher home heating and ...

Residential behind-the-meter (BTM) energy storage can also provide benefits directly to consumers and electric cooperative members. The available use cases and value created from each depend strongly ...
